ABOUT JCT

Founded in 1969, the Jerusalem College of Technology (JCT) is one of Israel's major academic institutions with about 4,800 students on three campuses. The College specializes in high-tech engineering, industrial management, business administration and life and health sciences. As a Jewish religious institution, JCT maintains high-level Judaic learning as a part of all degree programs. JCT's mission is to produce highly skilled professionals for Israel's rapidly developing industries who possess a strong commitment to Jewish values, the Jewish people, and the State of Israel.

ABOUT THE INTERNATIONAL PROGRAM

This unique program offers young men and women the viable opportunity to live and study Torah in Israel while pursuing a prestigious academic degree in Computer Science or Business Administration in English. On par with JCT's Hebrew-speaking programs, the International Program offers a comprehensive dual curriculum that combines high level academic studies, enriching Jewish studies and practical professional training. Following three critically formative and intensive years of study, students emerge prepared not only to embark on successful career paths but also thriving life paths that maintain an abiding fidelity to Torah and Israel. JCT's highly respected nationwide reputation helps open doors for new graduates. A dedicated College staff makes personal efforts to introduce students to potential employers through a wide network of alumni and professional connections, which often lead to key entry opportunities in students' fields.
